Situated on Scotland's famously picturesque West Coast, surrounded by Atlantic Sea mists, lies the island of Mull, the stunning location of the Tobermory distillery.

Undoubtedly one of Scotland's most beautiful and charming villages, it is a fitting home for one of the smallest and prettiest distilleries. Built in 1798, it is the only distillery on the island, and one of the oldest commercial distilleries in Scotland. Quite unique to other distilleries, it produces two very distinct single malt Scotch whiskies.

For those fortunate enough to uncover it, here lies a gem of a whisky. Tobermory 10 year old is an exquisitely handcrafted single malt. Evolved with a new look and taste, reinforcing the premium quality and heritage of the brand. By not chill-filtering the whisky you can appreciate the full depth of flavours, aromas and character of this fine malt whisky.
