Cazcabel Añejo Tequila, crafted by the Vazquez family in the highlands of Jalisco, Mexico, reflects four generations of expertise in agave farming and tequila production. Nestled in Atotonilco El Alto, the distillery benefits from natural springs and nutrient-rich soil. The tequila boasts a rich texture with notes of cinnamon, vanilla, and dry cacao, complemented by subtle winter spices and roasted agave. Its aroma features cooked agave, warm spices, and hints of toffee and vanilla. The finish is warming, smooth, and dry, with a touch of toasted oak.
